

COVID-19 RELIEF AID & ASSISTANCE IN INDONESIA

IMPACT REPORT

OVERVIEW

The number of COVID-19 confirmed cases in Indonesia has spiked significantly since the report of its first case in March 2020. The impact of the global health pandemic continues to take a devastating toll on the livelihood of the vulnerable and marginalised communities who depend on daily wages to make ends meet, especially those in the big cities with high mobility and dense populations such as Makassar in South Sulawesi and Surabaya in Eastern Java.

With the help of our partners, HP Foundation & ACT Indonesia, Mercy Relief responded by implementing COVID-19 Relief Aid & Assistance initiatives from 29 August 2020 to 18 September 2020, aimed at softening the impact on the affected communities. Through DiMuto's blockchain traceability solutions, Mercy Relief was able to track and monitor the distribution of our relief aid items remotely and efficiently.

Distribution of food packages to 500 households of persons with disabilities affected by the pandemic in 9 regencies in East Java.

"My husband is a masseur and I am a housewife. We have two children: our eldest is suffering from Lupus whereas our youngest was dismissed from her job due to the COVID-19 pandemic. My husband is currently out of work as no one books appointment for massage now. We are thankful for the food package by Mercy Relief as it has helped to defray our living expenses."

Mrs Anika Wati and her husband are both visually impaired.

Distribution of 10 swab booths to hospitals in South Sulawesi.

"We are extremely grateful for the swab booth support. We have limited PPE in the hospital hence this swab booth helps in protecting and aiding our front liners in performing the swab tests.
